

Reliable Resources for Research

Reliable Resources for Research

If you would like to explore these subscription databases, you need to get a login and password from the Library.

The access to this database is limited to ISH students and staff.

World Book Encyclopedia Online

<http://www.heinemannworldbook.co.uk> We highly recommend that students use the World Book Encyclopedia Online instead of other electronic encyclopedias, such as the Wikipedia, which are not as reliable and authoritative as this one. While offering fact-checked information on every subject imaginable, World Book also provides up-to-date articles and discusses current events and developments. It's a great place to start your research!

Global Newsbank

<http://infoweb.newsbank.com>

Access World News

The electronic editions of record for valuable U.S. newspapers as well as full-text content of key international sources -- all in one easy-to-search database with a world map. Each provides unique coverage of local and regional news, including companies, politics, sports, industries, cultural activities, and people in the community, as well as a distinctive focus offering a variety of viewpoints on local and world issues.

EBSCO Host Research Databases

<http://search.ebscohost.com>

There are a number of different databases but the one for all subjects and the best start is the Student Research Center. If you are looking for some contrasting views on hot topics the best place to go is the Points of View database. Also, the Literary Reference Center will help you with research about literature and authors.

Modern World History Online

www.fofweb.com/subscription

This database covers the people, places, and events in the broad expanse of history—from mid-15th century to the present.

The Economist

Available in the Library every Friday or online at WWW.ECONOMIST.COM

Financial Times FINANCIAL TIMES

Available in the Library every day or online at www.ft.com

Public Library in The Hague

<http://www.bibliotheekdenhaag.nl>

Check out their big collection of books in English via their website which also has an English version. Visit them downtown The Hague and get free membership if you're under 18 years old.

The Royal Library in The Hague

<http://www.kb.nl>

The KB, the national library of the Netherlands, gives researchers and students access to research information and enables everyone to share in the riches of the Dutch cultural heritage. Everybody can use a number of online services via the KB-website. A Year pass (€ 15,-) or Reading room pass (free) gives you more options.

Google – Book Search

<http://www.google.com/books?hl=en>

No password necessary! If the book is out of copyright, or the publisher has given Google permission, you'll be able to see a preview of the book, and in some cases the entire text. If it's in the public domain, you're free to download a PDF copy.

Google Scholar

<http://scholar.google.com>

Google Scholar provides a simple way to broadly search for scholarly literature. From one place, you can search across many disciplines and sources: peer-reviewed papers, theses, books, abstracts and articles, from academic publishers, professional societies, preprint repositories, universities and other scholarly organizations. Google Scholar helps you identify the most relevant research across the world of scholarly research.